

Hungarian Association for Food
Protection

a branch of

International Association for Food
Protection

Network Science Applications to Food Security and Safety

First announcement

6 June, 2011.
Central European University,
Budapest, HUNGARY

A satellite symposium associated with

NetSci 2011

Budapest, Hungary

June 6th–10th

<http://netsci2011.net>

Network Science Applications in Food Security and Safety

Programme

Central European University, 6 June, 2011

9.00-12.00: Networks in biology

(Joint school with Netsci-2011)

Péter Csermely, Semmelweis University, Budapest

12.00-13.00: Lunch

13.00: Introduction to Food Security and Safety

József Farkas, Central Food Research Institute, Hungary

- Networks in Food Safety Science

József Baranyi, Institute of Food Research, UK

- (Title To Be Announced ...)

Sebastian Ahnert, Cambridge University, UK

- Contributed talks

15.00: Coffee break

15.30:

-Food Alert Systems

Tamás Nepusz, Eötvös Lóránd University, Hungary

-Source Level Inference for Food Safety

Gary Barker, Institute of Food Research, UK

- Contributed talks